Women Jurors !

For the first time women are serving as Jurors in New York State. Many prominent women are being called.

By Alice Gilbert
editorial comment below.

Why shouldn't You ?
A bill was passed by the legislature of New York State April 1937 take effect September 1, 1937 permitting women to serve on juries. Under this law women can claim exemption if they wish to. The U.S. supposedly was founded on an equal basis. How come the women of N.Y. have jury rights while the women of Mass. don't.

"The Citizen Thinks"

While listening to one the many political discussions of today your reporter learned the following: A well informed gentleman said he thought that Roosevelt would have to answer to John Lewis's out slaught. He seemed to be seconded by the majority.

What is happening in Spain?
By Louis B. Gilbert

The recent Soviet note demanding investigation of piracy in Mediterranean waters in my opinion is not endangering Europe with War any more than recently. What the Russians say is probably true but it is exaggerated greatly. The Chatham Chatter takes the following stand on Spain. The loyalist government whether right or wrong is supported by the majority of people in Spain. Why go against the will of the people.

manned by that cross section of America that reflects the pioneer spirit. What we need to insure against the loss of the wage earner by death is something "perfectly simple yet simply perfect". Surely a better way than Savings Bank Life Ins. cannot be devised.

Progress of Saving Bank Life Insurance in N.Y. State.
By Sidney Wolff

The signing of a special enactment changing the Corporate law to permit the use of the name: Savings Bank Life Insurance League was the initial step in a campaign to make people of N.Y. State "Savings Bank Insurance" conscious. The fear of burial in a paupers grave was the basis of the inception of writing life insurance in amounts less than $1000.-

Why "Industrial" except to denote the industrious scurrying about of the entire household to meet the premiums, is beyond me. This make shift form of insurance which rarely ever "insures" but is a constant drain on the poor mans pocket book must be sold by poverty stricken men and women to their neighbors, while the life insurance policy issued by savings banks in Mass. meets every emergency at a fractional cost. Of 12000 general electric employees in Mass. more than half have bought S.B.L.I. The self sacrifice of the officials of the average savings bank, seemed ideal as the location of good sincere advice and unquestional service. The modest savings bank reflects self service - of the people, by the people, and for the people. headed by that type of man whose yard stick is welfare not wellbeing.

Homer At Play

When the champion roper showed his utmost skill, Homer clowned him, then laid a large noose upon the ground and as a horse galloped over it, flipped the noose and caught his tail.

The Oil Field

The roads winds over low hills circling the oil field. On every side are derricks and beside each a pipe rising in the air to carry off the gas which burns with a long flame wavering in the wind. Miserable shacks stand nearby built of corrugated iron and ill-assorted boards. Inside these shacks could sometimes be seen fine furniture and good rugs bought in anticipation of a future house in town. Clouds of black smoke rise from the dump where waste is burned to prevent explosion. A heavy smell of oil prevails. There are hives of huge storage tanks and heating vats where oil is refined. One hears tales of explosions and of wells on fire. Reminders of ever-present danger are the signs posted at every turn of the road "For ambulance call number 8073".

"THE NORTHEASTER"

Storm strikes Cape Cod on Labor Day Weekend.

By Major Stanley Root

The prolonged drought which has plagued a-like truck raisers and lawn growers was broken by the one day northeaster which arrived with the Labor Day holiday visitors much to their bad luck on Saturday. Sunday arrivals reported roads washed out and traffic delayed by submerged underpasses and mud blocked highways. The Cape itself proved its usual immunity to severe storms and while cellars and low places were flooded the damage was more than compensated for by the benefits to the late crops of our farmers. It was to late however to really save the garden produce.

"Marine Column"

A tournament race was held by the Stage Harbor Yacht Club Sunday Sept. 5th. While spectators stood drenched on the dock sailors mostly of the younger generation braved the Northeaster alone to win the cup offered by Commodore Hovey to the winner. After much discussion it was decided to use mainsails only. Later reefs were taken in.

SCANDINAVIA TODAY

By Janet Thompson

ed. note. Miss Thompson has just returned from Scandinavia.

Q. What are the general living conditions in Scandinavia?

A. The three countries, Norway, Sweden, and Denmark, conditions differ. As one passes through prosperous Denmark he sees the flat fertile plains dotted with many small farms and their clean, white, thatch roofed farmhouses. In Sweden, though, the people are richer and not so careful about cleanliness, and their red farmhouses belong to larger holdings of land. All the people have an unusually high standard of living, frequently with the help of electricity and their children look well nourished mentally and physically. In the cities there are no slums, for the poorest industrial worker can live in a cooperative apartment and the cooperative movement is very strong all over these two countries. In Norway the people are more scattered, especially in the mountains, where they raise cattle, and along the northern fjords where fishing is predominant and they are some what poorer.

Q. Is the average person interested in his government?

A. Yes, and he is usually well informed about it and seems to be able to choose the best people to represent him in running it.

In the beginning of the War a change of ships prevented the Confederacy from getting supplies from England. But one day steaming out of the harbor came a ship called the Merrimac. Bullets slipped off it like Rubber Balls and it sunk many ships. Next day a queer boat like a cheese box on a raft came out. It had two very powerful guns and fought with the Merrimac a long time. This ship the Monitor made the Merrimac go in the harbor and it never came out again. After Sherman's march the Confederacy was practically beaten because Virginia was cut apart from the Confederate state. A few more battles were fought and Lee and Grant arranged to meet at Appomatax court house. Lee surrendered on April 9th, 1865/

The Spanish News Digest: "Pianos" For Franco
A Danish Sailor returning from Hamburg has given to a Copenhagen newspaper copies of a leaflet secretly distributed to German dock-workers. It says, in part: "If you see great packing-cases of 'Pianos' destined for Franco, remember they Don't play the piano in the trenches. If you are assigned to handling it, it should be easy to smash the case. When the piano falls out, it will be a machine gun. Send all information you get to the addressees you know."

A Plumming Incident

By Barbara A. Weston

If you have never been down on Cape Cod when the beach-plum bushes are in bloom, dotting the undulating country in their snowy dress, you have missed one of Nature's fairest scenes.

These scubby trees, whose white flowers cling like eider to the black, leafless stems, nestle in sharp contrast against the melancholy hills. Nor is their beauty transient as the season wanes, for the brilliance of the fruit in autumn rivals the pristine glory of the bloom. In colors from the palest maize, through all the gaudy reds, to the deep purple blue of full ripeness, the gay plums line the bows. In the more fruitful years I have seen the branches burdened to breaking with this source of epicurean delight. Pure Beach-plum jelly, unadulterated with apple or other substitute, has no peer.

It was while I was gathering plums one day, along one of the narrow sand roads of Chatham, that two trim, elderly ladies approached, and timidly asked the name of the fruit in my basket. I judged from their accent that they were from the Middle West, and something in their manner suggested that they might be retired teachers. At any rate, they were greatly impressed when I replied that I was picking beach-plums, about which they had read in Mr. Lincoln's books. I answered a score of queries about the Cape and its people, and finally they continued on their way. Shortly, however the more inquisitive of the pair returned, to ask if I would grant her one more question "Gladly," I answered, myself amused at the couple. It.

"The Quahaug," she chirped, continued from P.2 Col. 2 which Mr. Lincoln so often mentions, is it a fruit or a berry?"
